Pacific Peoples' Partnership

Youth Longhouse Design Application

Pacific Peoples' Partnership (PPP) is thrilled to invite young artists (ages 21 and under) for a chance to collaborate with local Nuu-Chah-Nulth carver Hjalmer Wenstob. Hjalmer is working with PPP designing temporary longhouse structures which will be displayed on the Victoria legislature lawns as a feature of PPP's 10th Annual One Wave Festival on September 16th and 17th.

Youth interested in collaborating with the project are invited to submit a design for one of the longhouse fronts on the attached template. We are calling upon youth to design either a Coast Salish, Nuu-chah-nulth, Kwakwaka'wakw, or South Pacific design which will then be transferred onto the cedar longhouse fronts. The finished designs will be submitted into the design competition, and the selected artists will have the chance to work directly with Hjalmer in designing, and transferring the final design onto the full-scale red cedar longhouse fronts this August. Selected participants will receive a $500 honorarium, and special recognition during the One Wave Festival closing feast for their contributions to Hjalmer's final pieces. If they desire, selected participants will also have the opportunity to work with local Indigenous artists and leaders to design and implement public programming surrounding the longhouses for the One Wave Festival this fall.
